A History of Conflict in Eastern DRC
The roots of the current crisis in North Kivu and Ituri date back at least three decades.
PART 1
Prelude and the First Congo War
The Second Congo War
March 1993
6,000 people are killed and 250,000 displaced in North Kivu following attacks on people with Rwandan ancestry.
November 1996
The Rwandan army and an allied armed group attack refugee camps in eastern Zaire and march on the capital, Kinshasa. More states, including Uganda, joined the invasion.
August 1998
President Kabila turns on Rwanda and Uganda, whose militaries then invade.
April 2001
The United Nations finds the war has evolved into a conflict for control over minerals.
May 2003
Uganda withdraws from DRC, creating a power vacuum in Ituri that unleashes a wave of violence.
April 1994
After the genocide of some 800,000 Tutsi and moderate Hutu in Rwanda, over a million Hutu take refuge in DRC, then known as Zaire.
May 1997
Kinshasa falls. Rebel leader Laurent Kabila is installed as president.
January 2001
Kabila is assassinated. His son, Joseph Kabila, takes office until January 2019.
December 2002
A peace deal is brokered with the Rwandan-backed armed groups.

A History of Conflict in Eastern DRC
The roots of the current crisis in North Kivu and Ituri date back at least three decades.
PART 1
Prelude and the First Congo War
March 1993
6,000 people are killed and 250,000 displaced in North Kivu following attacks on people with Rwandan ancestry.

April 1994
After the genocide of some 800,000 Tutsi and moderate Hutu in Rwanda, over a million Hutu take refuge in DRC, then known as Zaire.

November 1996
The Rwandan army and an allied armed group attack refugee camps in eastern Zaire and march on the capital, Kinshasa. More states, including Uganda, joined the invasion.

May 1997
Kinshasa falls. Rebel leader Laurent Kabila is installed as president.

The Second Congo War
August 1998

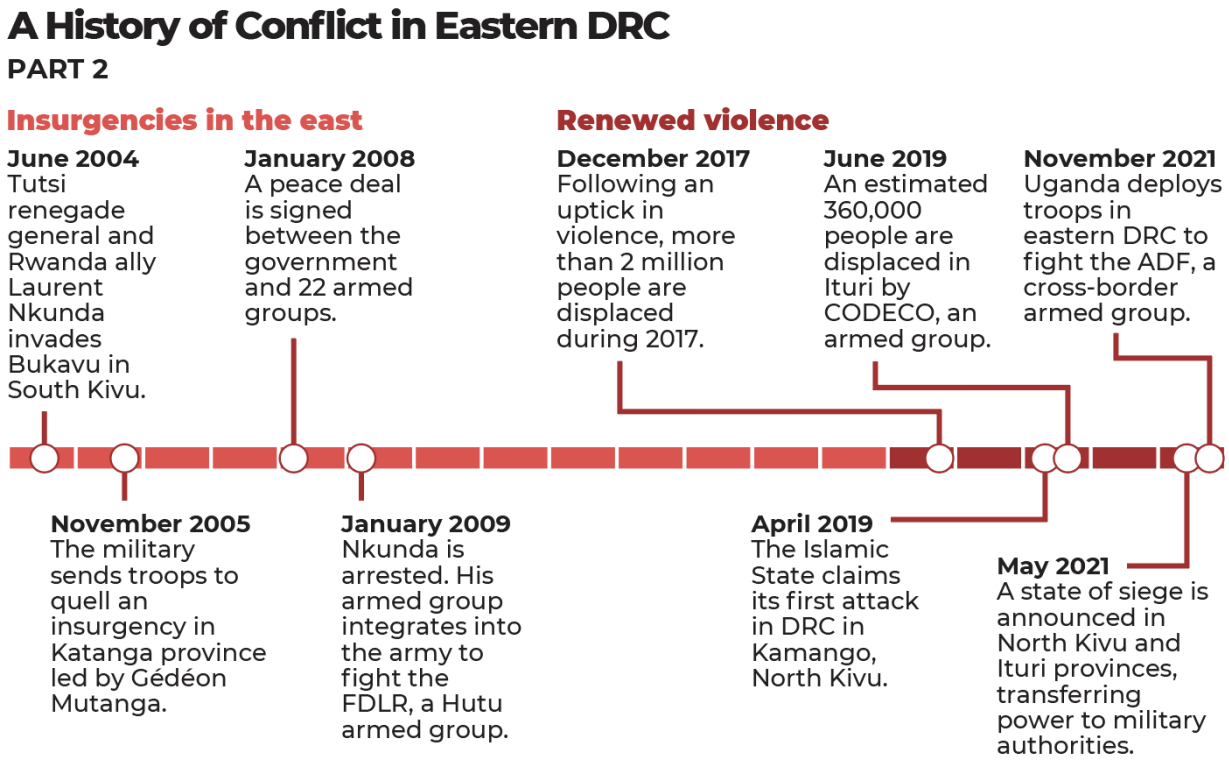
President Kabila turns on Rwanda and Uganda, whose militaries then invade.

January 2001
Kabila is assassinated. His son, Joseph Kabila, takes office until January 2019.

April 2001
The U.N. finds the war has evolved into a conflict for control over minerals.

December 2002
A peace deal is brokered with the Rwandan-backed armed groups.

May 2003
Uganda withdraws from DRC, creating a power vacuum in Ituri that unleashes a wave of violence.



A History of Conflict in Eastern DRC
PART 2
Insurgencies in the east
Renewed violence
June 2004
Tutsi renegade general and Rwanda ally Laurent Nkunda invades Bukavu in South Kivu.
January 2008
A peace deal is signed between the government and 22 armed groups.
December 2017
Following an uptick in violence, more than 2 million people are displaced during 2017.
June 2019
An estimated 360,000 people are displaced in Ituri by CODECO, an armed group.
November 2021
Uganda deploys troops in eastern DRC to fight the ADF, a cross-border armed group.
November 2005
The military sends troops to quell an insurgency in Katanga province led by Gédéon Mutanga.
January 2009
Nkunda is arrested. His armed group integrates into the army to fight the FDLR, a Hutu armed group.
April 2019
The Islamic State claims its first attack in DRC in Kamango, North Kivu.
May 2021
A state of siege is announced in North Kivu and Ituri provinces, transferring power to military authorities.

A History of Conflict in Eastern DRC

PART 2

Insurgencies in the east

June 2004

Tutsi renegade general and Rwanda ally Laurent Nkunda invades Bukavu in South Kivu.

November 2005

The military sends troops to quell an insurgency in Katanga province led by Gédéon Mutanga.

January 2008

A peace deal is signed between the government and 22 armed groups.

January 2009

Nkunda is arrested. His armed group integrates into the army to fight the FDLR, a Hutu armed group.

Renewed violence

December 2017

Following an uptick in violence, more than 2 million people are displaced during 2017.

April 2019

The Islamic State claims its first attack in DRC in Kamango, North Kivu.

June 2019
An estimated 360,000 people are displaced in Ituri by CODECO, an armed group.

May 2021
A state of siege is announced in North Kivu and Ituri provinces, transferring power to military authorities.

November 2021
Uganda deploys troops in eastern DRC to fight the ADF, a cross-border armed group.

AFRICA
Democratic Republic of Congo

Ituri province
North Kivu province

Butembo
Beni
Lubero
Ndwali
Walikale
Masisi
Kirumba

RWANDA
UGANDA